New Fire Insurance Rates Fluctuate On Public Buildings

FIRE: I was talking with Jimmy Burroughs the other day and he mentioned that the new fire insurance rates are out for Harrisburg.

"Are they up or down?" and I learned the dwelling rate is the same.

However, there are fluctuations in some of the public buildings around town and since most of you readers are taxpayers who support these buildings maybe you'd like for ol' Timmo to pick out a few of them and reveal the old and new rates.

Let's take the Harrisburg city hall first. The old rate on the building was 246, which is the same as $2.46 per thousand. And the new rate is 226, a cut of two cents on the hundred, or 20 cents on the thousand. The rate on the city hall contents was 406, and is now 346, a drop of .60, or six cents a hundred.

Want to walk up Locust street a half block and visit the court house? There we find the building rate the same, 61, and a drop in the rate for contents from 93 to 82. But at the county jail we find a 13 increase for both the building and contents. The old rate on the building was 127, the new 140, the old rate on contents 144, the new one 157.

Then there are the schools. There are lots of buildings and I'm not going to pick out any specific ones except to confine myself to Harrisburg. I picked out the high school, Junior high school and Dorrisville school, then the first elementary school building I ran across, which was Bayliss.

At the high school A building formerly had a rate of 80 and the new rate is 82, a rise of two cents on the hundred, but the rate of contents dropped a dime from 110 to 100.

The B building rate dropped from 80 to 77 and its contents rate fell from 110 to 95. At the C building, the building rate rose from 182 to 196 but the content rate dropped from 342 to 316.

Both building and content rates dropped at the Junior high school. The building rate dropped from 69 to 64 and the content rate from 99 to 82.

At Bayliss school the old building rate was 59, the new one 54, a drop of a nickel on the hundred, and the old content rate dropped 17, from 89 to 72.

At Dorrisville school the building rate rose .05 from 58 to 63 but the contents rate dropped .03 from 88 to 85.

Now you know what the first insurance rates are on some of the public buildings you readers are maintaining.

TRIP: Timmo made a quick trip to Hick's Dome yesterday afternoon and a brief survey revealed no activity at present on the mining of uranium oxide ores. There could have been some activity somewhere but I didn't see it.

If they find uranium down there we want to know about it.

ORCHIDS to the Colonial hotel, for the beautiful exterior paint job now in progress. The building is being painted gray, with white trim. Just in case—the Colonial was formerly the Horning. A practically 100 per cent remodeling job on the inside is getting closer to a completion date.

Big 4 Foreign Ministers to Meet in Vienna

Will Arrange for Conference
By Top Leaders

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Soviet Union agreed today to sign an Austrian state treaty on Western terms in one of the biggest breaks of the long cold war.

The East-West agreement paved the way for the Big Four foreign ministers to meet in Vienna this week end to sign the treaty and arrange a later conference of the Big Four heads of government.

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson, head of the American treaty delegation, told newsmen at the end of today's crucial session: "The treaty will be signed Sunday."

He said a joint five-power communiqué would be issued later today on the successful outcome of the parley.

The sudden break in the treaty negotiations came after 11 days of deadlock over the terms of Article 35 of the 59-article document. Article 35 governs Austria's debts to the Soviet Union.

The dispute involved Austrian oil and shipping properties, which the Russians took over as war reparations. The Soviets promised Austria last month that these properties would be returned. This was a sensational concession, but until today Russia had refused to write it into the treaty.

The West insisted, and won its point, that the agreement be put into the treaty.

The deadlock had threatened to break up the conference. The United States has served an ultimatum on the Soviet Union to agree upon a completed draft treaty today or call off Sunday's foreign ministers session at which the treaty was to be signed.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had announced in Paris that he would fly home instead of to Vienna if the Soviets continued to block agreement on the one remaining key article of the treaty draft.

But when the Soviets backed down and agreed to the West's demands, the Western Big Three foreign ministers headed for Vienna.

British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay made definite plans to fly here Friday. An American spokesman said "it is likely" that Dulles would come here at the same time.

It had been announced previously that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov would fly to Vienna from Warsaw Saturday. That night he will play host at dinner to the other foreign ministers.

Under the treaty, a neutral Austria will emerge. It will be the first time this nation has enjoyed full freedom since it was overrun and annexed by Germany under Adolf Hitler in 1938.

29-Year-Old Mother Of Three Reigns as Queen of Breakfast Table

ELLINOR VILLAGE, Fla. (UPI)—A 29-year-old mother of three children reigned today as queen of the breakfast table at the 17th annual "Mrs. America" contest.

Whether she will make the grade and become "Mrs. America of 1956" remained in doubt. But the judges agreed that she whipped up a better 6:30 a. m. breakfast than any of the 48 other contestants competing for the culinary crown.

Mrs. Patty Gunn, El Paso, Tex., wife of Dr. James A. Gunn, 31, a radiologist, scored her breakfast table victory with a menu including tomato juice rich in Vitamin C, eggs scrambled in a double boiler, sausage, cinnamon toast and butter and coffee.

Congressman Blasts Military Men in Top Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Robert H. Mollohan said today, Gen. Joseph M. Swing's personal C47 plane symbolizes what the country can expect if President Eisenhower continues to name retired generals and admirals to top government jobs.

Swing, a West Point classmate of Mr. Eisenhower's, is commissioner of immigration and naturalization, and wants two other retired generals — Maj. Gen. Frank H. Partridge and Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Howard — as assistant commissioners.

The House Armed Services Committee voted 19-5 Wednesday against Mollohan's motion to reconsider two Senate-passed bills to let Partridge and Howard take the immigration posts.

But Mollohan, West Virginia Democrat, said he will seek a show-down House vote on the issue.

He said Swing has a C47 for his personal use on "so-called inspection trips" at a cost of 49 cents a mile to the taxpayers. All previous commissioners used commercial transportation, Mollohan said.

Swing's daughter, Mary Ann Mitchell Swing, was put on the immigration service payroll last October as a clerk-stenographer at better than $4,000 a year, Mollohan said.

"That's about three grades higher than clerk-stenographers are usually recruited at," he said.

Names Division Commander Swing already has named "one of his wartime division commanders, David H. Carnahan, as regional director of the Southwest region," Mollohan said.

"He (Carnahan) appears to be totally lacking in any experience or training which would qualify him to fulfill the highly technical and specialized duties of a regional commissioner," Mollohan told the armed services committee.

Mollohan, whose government operations subcommittee is investigating Swing's administration, said Swing testified that his private C47 cost only 2.1 cents a passenger mile. But Mollohan said that is "the passenger-mile cost of the entire fleet of the service's C47s."

"The Air Transport Association reports that the operation cost of a DC3, the civilian equivalent of a C47, is $70.22 per hour while airborne or 49 cents a mile," Mollohan said.

Estimate $40,000 Cost for Preliminary Rend Lake Survey

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—Backers of the 13,000-acre Rend Lake project on the Big Muddy River today had a State Waterways Division report estimating it will take $40,000 for a preliminary engineering study to see if the project is workable.

Trustees of the Rend Lake Conservancy District and legislators from the area of the proposed project got the report when they met briefly with Gov. William G. Stratton Wednesday. The report was prepared by chief waterways engineer Thomas B. Casey and his staff.

Stratton, Daley Agree on Tax Program, Other Major Issues

Includes Half Cent Sales Tax Hike Each For State and Cities

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—Gov. William G. Stratton and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley today handed the Legislature a program for a 1/2 cent state sales tax increase and a "permissive" 1/2 cent city sales tax.

The Republican governor and Democratic mayor ended three weeks of conferences Wednesday with an "agreed" revenue program they said "will help Chicago, downstate cities and the state as a whole."

Their report of "complete unanimity" on all the big issues of the legislative session promised action in the General Assembly, which has so far moved at a sluggish pace.

These major issues are an immediate tax program; legislative reapportionment; and new revenue and judicial articles of the Constitution.

Here is the joint stand announced by the governor and mayor on each:

Immediate tax measures: A 1/2 per cent increase in the present two per cent sales tax from July 1, 1955, to July 1, 1957, with the increase expiring after these two years. This 1/2 per cent increase would give the state 100 million dollars added revenue for the 1955-57 biennium, the same amount expected from the one-year 1 per cent increase already introduced in the Legislature by Stratton.

They will back a bill to permit city governments to levy a sales tax up to 1/2 per cent by ordinance. There will be no "back-door" referendum or clause permitting objectors to petition for a referendum on the levy in this bill.

Another bill would give downstate cities authority to levy a 5 per cent tax against all privately owned public utilities.

"Supplemental" legislation to give cities more power for "home rule" lawmaking and levying of taxes will also have governor-mayor support.

Reapportionment: Both Stratton and Daley said rapid legislative agreement on a bill remapping Senate and House districts according to the 1954 amendment can be expected.

They said only "details" remain to be worked out on a Chicago Senate district map before the bill would be introduced in both houses.

But when asked if they would try to "hold the line" on this bill if a disgruntled legislator jumps the traces and tries to upset the delicately balanced redistricting, Daley smiled and said, "We hope the Legislature can take care of that themselves."

Revenue article: Stratton and Daley promised joint action in pushing a new revenue article through the Legislature, "so that both the state and local governments may after 1956 have a realistic revenue program," Stratton said.

This proposed amendment would have to be approved by the people in referendum at the 1956 general election. "If the people approve this new revenue article it won't be necessary to impose many of these new tax measures," the governor said.

Red Jets Seek to Intercept American Plane

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI)—Communist MIG-type jet fighters invaded Danish territory and started to intercept a U. S. Air Force training plane today, but failed to open fire.

The American plane was a two-place jet trainer being delivered to Denmark's air force from a U. S. base in West Germany. The craft and its two American occupants finished the flight safely.

The Americans, whose names were not released immediately, told Danish air force authorities that the MIG-type fighters buzzed their plane over the Danish island of Lolland. The island lies 40 miles across the Baltic Sea from Communist East Germany.

The American plane was a two-seater T-33 training version of the F80 Shooting Star. It was being delivered under the U. S. mutual aid program.

An official in the control tower of Copenhagen's Kastrup Airport said the two American fliers landed and immediately reported to the tower, stressing that no guns had been fired.

Band Students To Tour Kentucky, Tennessee Areas

Eighty eight members of the Harrisburg Township high school band under the direction of Marshall Cothran will leave at 7 a. m. tomorrow by bus, for a tour of Kentucky and Tennessee.

On their first day out they will stop at Clarksville, Tenn., for a picnic at Dunbar Cave. They will then move on to Nashville, Tenn., where they plan to spend the night at York Hotel court. While in Nashville the group will visit the Hermitage, home of President Andrew Jackson, the Parthenon and the National cemetery.

Saturday morning the buses will head farther south to Chattanooga where the members will spend the night at the Patton hotel. Lookout Mountain, Rock City and the Clarence T. James observatory will be some of the interesting spots which will be seen. The buses will return home Sunday night.

The transportation and lodging will be paid for by the band fund. Other expenses will be taken care of by the students.

Postal Pay Increase Up To Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower today faced the alternative of approving a postal pay raise larger than he wanted or vetoing the bill for the second straight year.

Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) told a reporter, "I have a feeling the President might not veto this bill." But there were Republican warnings that the President would do so.

It calls for a raise averaging 8.6 per cent.

Pastore, a member of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, said Mr. Eisenhower might be impressed by the lopsided 66-11 vote by which the Senate approved the compromise pay bill and sent it to the White House late Wednesday. The House approved the compromise Monday, 328-66.

But Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), senior Republican member of the committee, indicated to the Senate that he expected the President to veto the measure. In that case, Carlson said, he would vote to sustain the veto and—if that succeeded—would introduce a bill for a 7.6 per cent raise, a figure Republican leaders indicated earlier was acceptable to the President.

The bill approved Wednesday was a compromise between a straight 10 per cent raise originally voted by the Senate and 8.2 per cent approved by the House, which added a job reclassification plan. It will cost the Post Office Department an extra $179,800,000 a year.

Check on Parke-Davis Supplies Nearly Finished

Cleared Vaccine Will Include Thousands of Doses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Public Health Service expects to release the first batch of embargoed Salk vaccine today and resume the nation's polio vaccination program after a six-day halt.

Informed sources said they expect a favorable report before tonight from a team of federal experts who have been checking vaccine produced by Parke Davis and Co., Detroit.

Barring a last-minute hitch, the health service hopes to notify all health authorities late today that "several batches" of Parke Davis vaccine have been doublechecked and are approved for immediate use in inoculations.

Informants said the batches to be cleared probably represent several hundred thousand doses of the vaccine. These doses already are in the hands of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, local health officials, and private physicians.

Could Resume Friday

This means that inoculations in some areas could resume Friday. Michigan, of course, refused to halt its immunization program on the grounds it had complete confidence in its vaccine supplies—mostly Parke Davis.

The vaccine expected to be cleared today was approved by the Public Health Service some time ago. But Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, U. S. surgeon general, ordered a recheck Saturday of all vaccine stocks after more than 50 cases of polio had developed among vaccinated children. The officially reported number is now 62.

While the sources were in progress, he strongly recommended that all inoculations be halted and the immunization project ground virtually to a halt.

A team of health service experts, headed by Dr. William G. Workman, made a detailed study of Parke Davis' vaccine records here and then went to Detroit Wednesday to conduct an on-the-spot check of the firm's manufacturing and testing methods.

Informants said the experts will be at Parke Davis a few more days, but they are expected to complete their recheck on "several" batches today.

Meantime, Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.) cautioned the House against "abrupt action" on the vaccine matter that might prove ill-advised. He urged a moratorium on attacks on Scheele and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education and welfare.

"I hope Congress will not take abrupt action in a situation it knows little about," Miller said. "This is truly a case where a little knowledge is a dangerous thing."

Miller's remarks apparently were made in answer to demands by two Democratic House members that President Eisenhower order Mr. Hobby to answer congressional charges that he approved the vaccination program "without adequate testing" of the vaccine.

They urged the House Banking committee to request President Eisenhower to direct the secretary of health, education and welfare to appear and "answer all pertinent questions" about the temporarily-stalled vaccination program.

That 'Sixth Sense'

Editorial by Bruce Bissat
Not all the great decisions of war and peace and politics require just a strict weighing of the facts. Men play hunches. And so do the reporters and columnists who record their doings.

The other day President Eisenhower told newsmen a "sixth sense" suggested to him that prospects for world peace are on the upswing. On the same occasion he casually disclosed that he knew exactly how many months are left in his present White House term—21.

Putting their own "sixth sense" quickly into play, many of the correspondents started speculating afresh that Mr. Eisenhower had decided against a second term. Their reasoning was simple.
After all, when a man is counting the months, it strongly indicates that he can hardly wait to escape. Put that together with facts like his costly improvements to his Gettysburg farm, his frequent flight from the capital, and maybe you have a picture of a man who is laying all his plans to retire from politics on Jan. 20, 1957.

Maybe. There can't be much question about what the President would do on that date if he were a wholly free agent. He would get in his car and drive to Gettysburg—to stay. But he isn't really a free agent.

It goes without saying he will be subject, indeed, is already subject to terrific pressures from within his own party to run again. Public opinion polls showing the two top Democratic choices, Adlai Stevenson and Senator Kefauver, running well ahead of any GOP possibility except the President will do nothing to lessen those pressures.

Men close to Mr. Eisenhower say, though, that he would never let mere political considerations determine his course. Naturally, there are other factors at work.
The very thing that brought him onto the presidential scene in the first instance—his sense of duty—may make powerful impact on him once more in the intervening months.

We all realize our affairs today are governed overwhelmingly by world events, by the outlook for peace or war. And this is the one field where the President seems to believe himself able to make deeply thoughtful decisions considering of America's and humanity's future.

He is no politician, no domestic affairs expert. But he approaches the problem of peace with dedication. And there is a good deal of evidence to show that this lies at the root of the great trust a large share of American voters have in him.

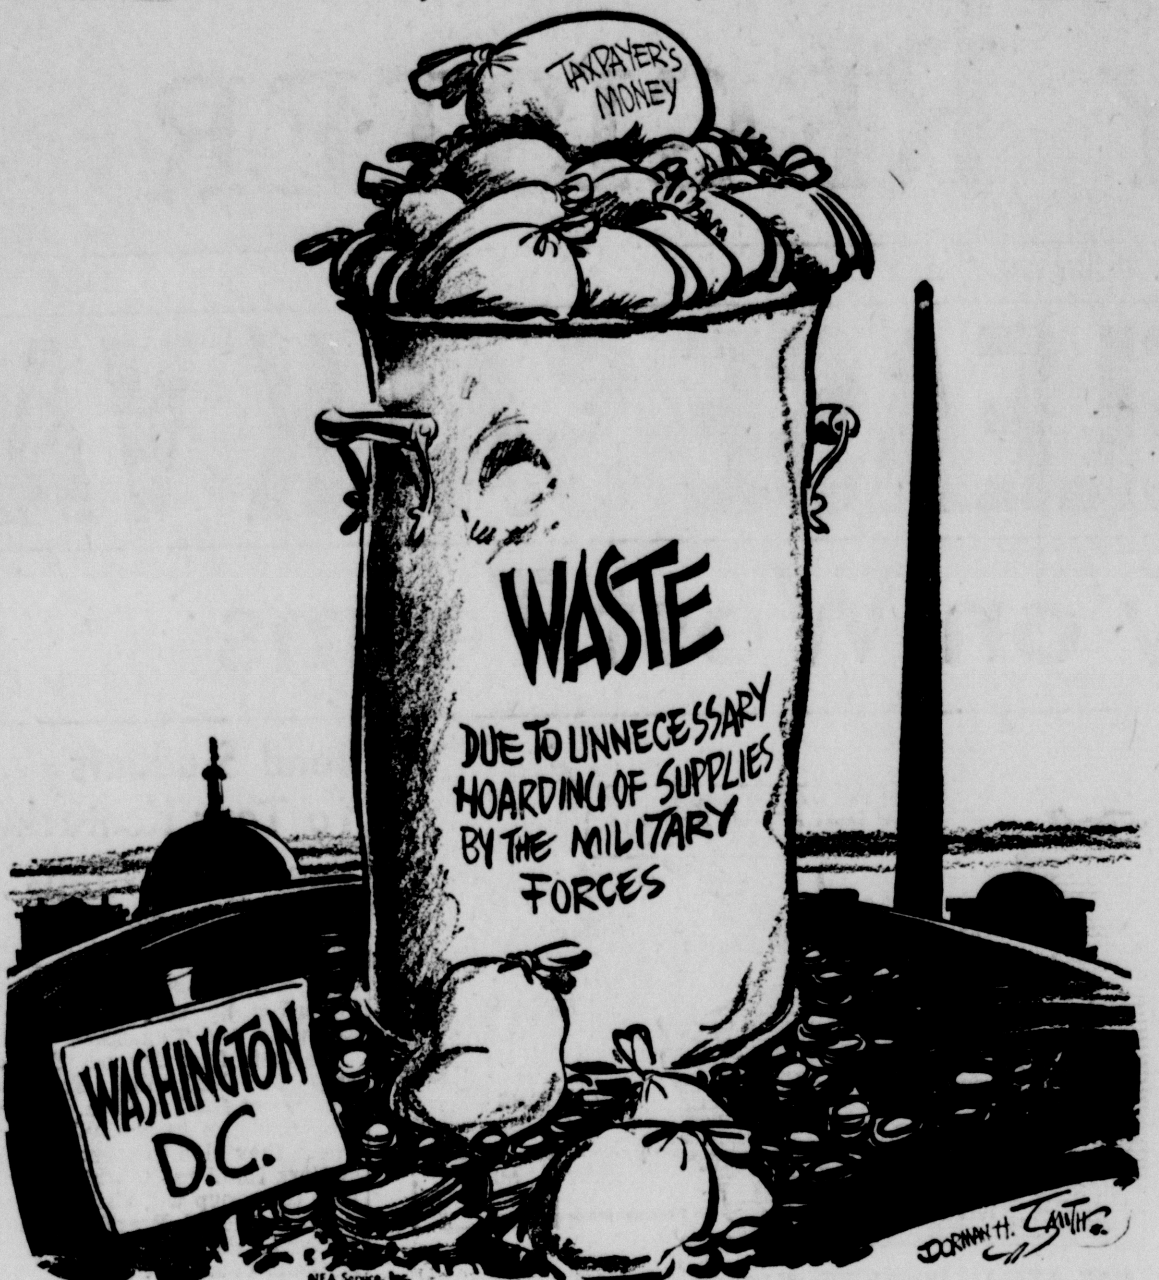

Mr. Eisenhower may well be counting the months. But those who think this is significant might take one eye off the calendar and keep it on the events that will unfold in the arena of war and peace. For it seems more likely that it will not be determined whether or not the President runs in 1956.

No Need for Fear

The announcement that some youngsters who were inoculated with Salk polio vaccine, as produced by a particular firm, have since contracted polio should be taken in calm stride by the American people.

By and large, the parents who first allowed their children to participate in the great test of this vaccine responded with firm good

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Governors decide like should take rap for boners; Dr. Scheele highlights need for vaccine control; young Texan takes Mount Vernon in stride.

WASHINGTON.—They kept it to themselves, but Democratic governors made an important political decision at their secret bone session last week. They agreed to pin the blame on President Eisenhower personally for the mistakes of his administration.

This should mean an end to Ike's long political immunity, though Democrats on Capitol Hill are still nervous about criticizing him. Democratic governors, however, will start taking pot shots at the man in the White House. They agreed no longer to let him hide behind his subordinates when unpopular decisions are made.

The agreement was reached while an Eisenhower supporter, Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, sat in the room. No punches were pulled because of Shivers, who took it all in without batting an eye. He opened his mouth only once during the entire secret meeting, then to suggest where he thought the Eisenhower administration was most vulnerable.

"The farm issue," he remarked, "is unquestionably the weakest link in the Eisenhower administration." That was Shivers' only contribution, one way or the other, to the political strategy session.

Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler reviewed with the governors Democratic gains since the 1952 election. Based upon the voting trends, he promised that the Democrats can capture the 1956 election by winning only one of four key states—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois or California.

LAUSCHE REGRETS
The governors also grumbled against Ohio's Gov. Frank Lausche for high-hating their private Democratic meeting. Lausche had boycotted the session with the crack that he wouldn't participate in destroying their host of the previous night, meaning Eisenhower.

"If Lausche aspires to the Democratic presidential nomination, he sure cooked his goose," snorted one governor.

On the other hand, Tennessee's young Gov. Frank Clement emerged, sense. That same attitude is called for now.

The authorities do not believe the vaccine is at fault, but they have withdrawn this particular batch as a precaution. Obviously the matter requires the kind of intensive study that was given to all phases of the original test. Until that study has been made, there is no reason to jump to conclusions.

That is the advice of Dr. Jonas Salk himself. There is no need for fear or panic. The American people are so steady a lot to fall into that. Surely they will wait patiently while the cases in question are investigated.

have done to prevent the diversion of the vaccine away from the high priority categories of children.

"We can't give you such a breakdown until next week, because the picture changes every day," Dr. Scheele replied, "but I don't believe many states have taken such action."

"Surely," countered Congressman Reuss, "Mrs. Hobby can't assure herself that the problem will be adequately handled in the 48 states without finding out what's being done in the 48 states."

Note: Commenting about Shivers' presence, one governor remarked afterward: "Some of us thought we had a spy in our midst. But we let our hair down in front of him anyhow."

VACCINE CONTROL

If and when the Salk vaccine inoculations are resumed, as Public Health Service expects them to be, need for federal supervision and control will be all the more urgent.

This developed during congressional cross-examination the other day when Dr. Leonard Scheele, head of Public Health, and Dr. Chester A. Keefer, assistant to Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby, were sent by Mrs. Hobby to testify before the House Banking and Currency committee.

Dr. Scheele in the past was reported as favoring federal control; but, loyal to his chief, Mrs. Hobby, he told congressmen: "Doctors don't need policemen standing by their sides."

Yet in almost the same breath he highlighted one of the important reasons for federal control—the limited production of the Salk vaccine. Another is the newness of the drug and the need for strict supervision of its manufacture.

When Congressman Henry Reuss of Wisconsin pointed out that under 20 who are susceptible to polio and therefore desirous of getting hold of the Salk vaccine," Dr. Scheele corrected him.

"There are 104,000,000 such people," he said.

"And there will be 69,000,000 c.c. of vaccine produced by August 17," the congressman asked.

"The situation has changed," said Scheele. "There has been a slowdown—really a standstill—until we can evaluate the standards and the safety tests for producing the vaccine."

Then Reuss asked: "In the light of the figures, is the committee right in assuming there will be pressures and problems in seeing to it that the vaccine gets to the children in the priority age groups, and not to adults?"

Without waiting for an answer, Reuss asked the surgeon general to hand the committee "today a breakdown of what the 48 states had done to prevent the diversion of the vaccine away from the high priority categories of children.

"We can't give you such a breakdown until next week, because the picture changes every day," Dr. Scheele replied, "but I don't believe many states have taken such action."

"Surely," countered Congressman Reuss, "Mrs. Hobby can't assure herself that the problem will be adequately handled in the 48 states without finding out what's being done in the 48 states."

Note: Commenting about Shivers' presence, one governor remarked afterward: "Some of us thought we had a spy in our midst. But we let our hair down in front of him anyhow."

ANOTHER TEXAN

Lawmaking is tough work even for veterans in Congress, but for first-timers it's doubly difficult. They have to master the ins and outs of legislating and at the same time they face the personal problem of getting their wives and children used to the hectic routine of life in the nation's capital.

Jim Wright, a smiling new congressman from Fort Worth, took his 10-year-old son to Washington's home at Mount Vernon on Sunday, hoping thereby to stimulate the lad's patriotism and get him interested in history.

The boy wandered around for some time and even got lost for a while. When he finally turned up, Congressman Wright asked him how he was enjoying his visit to Mount Vernon.

"Traffic, dad," answered the boy. "This is a wonderful place and, boy! I've been all over. There's a swell woods over there and, you know, I was looking around and I found a real underground tunnel."

"Yes," said Mr. Wright. "But how did you like George Washington's house?"

"Oh," replied the boy from Texas, "you mean that big old house over there?"

Mortgage Burning Ceremony At Carrier Mills

An impressive mortgage burning ceremony was held at the Carrier Mills Nazarene church on Sunday, May 8, at 2:30 p. m. The following assisted in the service with special singing: Mrs. Marjorie Pritts and daughters, Joyce and Avenelle; Raymond Allen and Mrs. Afton Parton; Rev. Robert Wines, garden of Harrisburg; the quartet from the First Church of God, Carrier Mills; and Rev. Mrs. Betty Wagner and Miss Lavelly of Marion.

Rev. Carl Hanvey spoke briefly for the Carrier Mills Ministerial Alliance. Mayor Freeman O'Keefe brought a brief message of congratulations to the church.

Dr. W. S. Purinton, district superintendent of the Illinois District Church of the Nazarene, brought a message in which he spoke of the development of the Carrier Mills church, and also the development of the General Church since its organization with 39 churches in 1907. In his message he stated that there are now more than 4000 local congregations, 28 mission fields, and the prospects of an ever increasing development and growth along all lines.

After the message Dr. Purinton called the trustees to the platform to participate in the mortgage burning. Earl Pankey, chairman of the board, held the pan, Clyde Pankey held the mortgage, and Kenneth Gee watched as the district superintendent lighted the match that reduced the mortgage to ashes.

Besides the church members and friends from the community there were present visitors from Harrisburg, Omaha, Marion and Royalton.

The congregation is now starting a fund with which it plans to purchase a paragon.

DEATH OF A LEGEND

By WILL HENRY

THE STORY: More and more frequently murder accompanies the bank robberies committed by Jesse James and his gang. One of the gang, Cole Younger, is sickened by the fact that a bank cashier was shot down.

XVII
Jesse granted the introduction of Ed Miller as Cole quinted to adjust his eyes to the glow of the lamp in the barn.

"Any kin to Clegg?" asked Cole, eying the newcomer unsocially.

"Brother," the man in question answered for himself.

Both the James and Younger families were of better than border average. Both bloodlines were of High South, First Family heritage. While in the matter of formal education neither Cole nor Frank nor Jesse had progressed beyond the Pleasant Grove grammar school, the parents of both clans were well educated, widely read, and of marked religious bent. All three were omnivorous readers and, despite the obvious frontier crudities of their speech, were regarded by most who had occasion to come in social contact with them, happily or unhappily, as "definitely well-bred gentlemen" with polite, scholarly bearings.

By marked contrast, their followers, with the sole exception of the quiet-spoken Jim Cummings, were rough, unlettered men. Of these Clegg Miller was typical. A ruffian in the classic sense, he had neither formal nor family leavening in any education other than that of first-degree murder and armed, felonious assault.

"Ed's just out from State's Prison. Clegg's sent him to me. Ed's got an idea you'll cotton to. Got it from John Reno, while they was in jail together."

John Reno and his three brothers had run a gang pretty much like Jesse's only up in north Missouri, Illinois and Indiana. But not with Diggins' luck. The Pinkertons had caught up with them. And John had spent his last three summers in the Missouri State Prison. Still, any man in Cole's profession had to listen when John Reno's name was called out in the meeting.

"Go on," said Cole, still not liking it.

"Express cars!" blinked Jesse. "Government and big company payroll gold, on through trains!"

"Yeah, I know," granted Cole caustically. "It's a powerful grand idea. Look at where it's wound John Reno up."

"That ain't the point, you big nunny!" Jesse flashed his twisted grin deliberately. "Reno was just getting the kinks worked out of it when he was took."

He paused, eying Cole, and saw he was losing ground.

"Money," snapped Jesse. "Cole, some of them trains carries up to a $100,000 in gold! Maybe even in one job—we can get clear of Clay County and stay clear of it!"

"Ding—" it was Cole's turn to put his hand on his friend's shoulder. "You mean that, old hoss? You really mean that if we get that $100,000 you're through and done and shut of robbing?"

"I mean it, Cole! So help me!" said Jesse eagerly. "And I'll promise you something else!"

He played his hole card carefully, knowing what it meant to Cole, saying it as if it meant the same thing to him. "There'll be no more killings."

And in the following five minutes the particulars of the first major train robbery in world history were set forth in the Samuel barn.

Important in their plans was the bribing of an express company clerk in Omaha concerning the shipment of gold from the Black Hills.

Jesse picked his spot just east of the bluffs, selecting a sharp curve a mile south of the C.R.I. & P. waypoint of Adair, Iowa. By 7:15 P. M. there was still too much of the late July daylight lingering on, but he could wait no longer.

The spades, saddle-packed all the way from Clay County, were put to work loosening a stretch of half a dozen ties beneath a rail collar on the curve. Meanwhile, Frank and Cole, under Jesse's personal eye, unbolted the joining collar.

The long ropes were quickly passed beneath the loosened rails, half-hitched around the ties, re-passed beneath the roadbed steel and made fast to the horns of Cole's and Frank's saddles.

The two horsemen swung up and eased their mounts into the slack testing it. Satisfied, they nodded through the growing twilight to Jesse. He nodded back, turned his own mount toward the timber and the restless shadows of his waiting men.

The minutes wore on. He counted them away against the audible ticking of the battered silver watch in his breast pocket. Suddenly, he held his breath, cursed softly. The watch had stopped ticking. He pulled it out.

Thirty feet away, down at the tracks, Cole heard the curse and the tiny crash of the watch.

"What's the trouble, Ding?"

"I dropped my watch!" answered Jesse, the flash of the ant-trium as swiftly fled as it had flared.

"Well, don't cry no more," advised Cole tenderly. "Daddy'll get you a new one."

Then it came. Plaintive, sad, long-echoing. The lost-soul cry of a steam locomotive's haunting whistle, keening through the night.

Cole laughed across the darkness. Then he boomed out above the growing hum and clack of the rails, "Pull up your blinders, boys! We might have to shoot somebody we know!"

He and Frank, masks already in place, eased their horses forward again, into the full pull of the ropes.

Moslem Edifices

Next to Mecca's Kaaba and Medina's Mosque, Jerusalem's Dome of the Rock is the edifice most revered by Moslems. It is commonly called the Mosque of Omar and stands on the site of Solomon's Temple.

Bermuda Shorts Official Wear for Dallas Milkmen

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—That ultra-fashionable man who sauntered up to certain Dallas doors today was the milkman—clad in Bermuda walking shorts.

Thirty of 120 milkmen employed by one Dallas dairy so made their rounds. With their shorts—a se-date black—they wore short-sleeved khaki shirts, knee-length ribbed khaki socks, black loafers and black golfers' caps.

This ensemble, furthermore, represents the official although not the obligatory wear for Metzger Dairies milkmen from today until mid-September, when summer is only just beginning to wane in Dallas.

Dairies owner Jake Metzger, with no advance warning, Tuesday sent out two of his milkmen dressed in shorts for a test reaction.

It was, he reported, good.

"One housewife said her husband will bless us because he's been trying for years to get up the courage to put on Bermuda shorts. Now we've given him a reason for doing it," Metzger said.

The dairy owner frankly hopes to start a trend, to encourage all sorts of men to begin wearing shorts to work.

As for his milkmen, he is resigned to the fact they probably will have to take a lot of kidding. He doesn't figure that will hurt business.

"They work in an area of public relations where good humor is essential to good business," Metzger said.

"Proclaim Liberty throughout all the lands" is inscribed on the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia.

Senate Committee Recommends Korean Bonus Bill

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—The Illinois Senate military affairs committee Wednesday recommended passage of a 100-million-dollar Korean bonus bill.

The bill would give veterans $10 a month for domestic service and $15 a month for foreign service between July 26, 1950, and July 26, 1953. The committee passed an amendment that veterans be "honorably discharged" to receive the bonus.

The 100-million-dollar bond issue would be financed by a share of state horse racing and cigarette taxes. A similar bonus bill for a 150-million-dollar bond issue to be financed by harness race and alcohol taxes is in the House.

Two Former POWs Face Court-Martial

NEW YORK — Two former American prisoners of war in Korea faced court-martial today on charges of collaborating with the enemy. One of them also was accused of murdering a number of his prison camp colleagues.
The 1st Army identified the men as Sgt. James C. Gallagher, 23, and Cpl. Harold M. Dunn, 26, both of Brooklyn. Gallagher, it charged, "committed murder without premeditation."

Their arrest and incarceration in turreted Castle Williams at Ft. Jay here followed almost two years of intensive investigation, Lt. Gen. Thomas W. Herren, 1st Army commander, reported. During that time apparently neither knew that his life as a war prisoner was under scrutiny.
At least, after the two were released in Operation Big Switch in Korea in 1953 there was no public inkling that they specifically were suspected of turncoat activities. Mediation of fellow American while they were prisoners.
Dunn came home to reign as king of the New York State Fair when it opened at Syracuse Sept. 5, 1953.
Dunn even testified as a prosecution witness last Sept. 1 at the court-martial of Cpl. Claude Batchelder at San Antonio, Tex. Batchelder, one of a group of American prisoners who at first turned down repatriation, but later agreed to go home, got a 20-year sentence for collaboration.
Dunn testified that the American collaborators were trained by their North Korean captors to carry out Communist-line activities once they were returned to their homes in the United States.
Gallagher also got a similar sympathetic reception from the public when he and other prisoners of war returned from Korea.
The murder charge against him was not detailed, nor did the Army give out the number of fellow Americans he allegedly killed "without premeditation."

Stratton, Daley Agree on Tax Program

Daley reported a "workable" solution to the question of selecting and electing judges on a non-partisan basis. They will propose "non-partisan elections," which the governor said would follow closely the lines of present city non-partisan elections.
Stratton said both agreed generally to the proposal for streamlining and simplifying the court structure as drafted by the joint bar associations committee. He said the big stumbling block in the Legislature had been opposition to letting nomination commissions select the judicial candidates at circuit court level.
The "non-partisan election" which Stratton said is "workable" and allows the people to vote on the Circuit Court level judges and Daley said "gives anyone an opportunity to run" would work like this:
Any attorney could circulate nominating petitions to get on the primary ballot, the top vote-getters in the primary would then engage in a final run-off election, all on a non-partisan ticket.

Yankees Send Slaughter to Kansas City; Indians Release Newhouser

By United Press
The axe swung throughout the big leagues—and it hit a lot of guys hard.

Enos Slaughter, dealt to Kansas City by the Yankees, swallowed a lump in his throat and mumbled, "I never had much of a chance." Southpaw Hal Newhouser, released outright by Cleveland, tried to take the news nonchalantly but didn't quite make it as he said, "I know I can still help some club."

Catcher Mickey Grasso, handed his release by the Giants, didn't know where to turn. "This is the first time I've ever been released in my life," he said.

And Don Larsen, the strong young right-hander with the 20-game potential whom the Yankees optioned to Denver of the American Association, sat coldly in front of his locker.

All this took place Wednesday when the clubs feverishly pared their rosters to get down to the required 25-player limit by midnight.

"I hate to send anyone out," Yankee Manager Casey Stengel said, frowning. "It's tough on everyone concerned."

Stengel made his remarks after dealing Slaughter and pitcher John Sain to Kansas City for cash and catcher Sonny Dixon, who immediately was sent outright to Denver; optioning Larsen to Denver and selling southpaw Art Schallack to the Baltimore Orioles.

The Indians optioned rookie first baseman Joe Altobelli to Indianapolis of the American Association and sold outfielder Harry Simpson to Kansas City.

The Athletics put in the busiest day of all. Not only did they deal with the Yankees, but they bought pitcher Ray Herbert from Detroit, and sent second baseman Forrest (Spook) Jacobs to Columbus of the International league while recalling second baseman Hector Lopez from the same club.

Coleman on Disabled List
Detroit released outfielder Steve Souchock outright to Buffalo of the International league and placed infielder Ronnie Samford on the waiver list, preparatory to releasing him outright.

Pittsburgh optioned pitcher Al Grunwald to Mexico City of the Class Double-A Mexican league. Baltimore placed pitcher Joe Coleman on the disabled list, optioned pitcher Don Ferrarese to Oakland of the Pacific Coast league, and announced that southpaw Bill Miller would be sent to some club yet undecided.

Milwaukee optioned pitcher Ray Crone to Toledo of the American Association; the Phillies optioned outfielder Mel Clark to Syracuse of the International and infielder Lou Ortiz to Seattle of the PCL, while the Red Sox sent infielder Owen Friend and pitcher Bob Smith to Louisville of the American Association, and pitcher Joe Trimble to Hollywood of the PCL.

Stokes Signs with Royals; St. Louis Gets Pro Cage Team

NEW YORK—The Rochester Royals hoped today that the man who made little St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., a college basketball power could also make them champions of the National Basketball Association.

The Royals acquired one of the prize players of the NBA draft Wednesday when they signed Maurice (The Magnificent) Stokes. A 6-foot 6-inch, 235-pounder, Stokes averaged more than 25 points a game for St. Francis last season and was voted the most valuable player in both the National Invitation tournament and the East-West All-Star game.

Stokes, who also had been sought by the Harlem Globetrotters, is expected to take over as the Royals' regular center.

The league, meanwhile, revealed that it had approved the transfer of the Milwaukee Hawks to St. Louis and has turned down a franchise application from a Washington, D. C. group. Marvin Edelman, attorney for the Washington group, immediately announced he would renew a motion for a court injunction against the league.

St. Louis thus acquired a major league pro basketball franchise for the first time since 1949-50. The team operated then under the name of the Bombers.

Robinson Faces $40,000 Suit

MILWAUKEE—Jackie Robinson was served with legal papers in a $40,000 federal damage suit today. He said he did not understand the reason for the action unless it was to try to upset him and hurt the Dodgers.

Robinson and the Dodgers were sued in U. S. District Court by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wolinsky for alleged injuries resulting when his tossed bat went into the stands at Milwaukee County Stadium last summer.

"I don't understand it," Robinson said. "Their first lawyer (James Stern) said the only thing I had to do was drop them a note. He said they weren't hurt."

Robinson tossed the bat toward the Brooklyn Dodgers as he walked off the field after being thrown out of a game against the Milwaukee Braves June 2. The bat hit the top of the dugout and bounced off into the stands.

HSA Reports Curb on Fouling By Bonus Rule

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Statistics show the "1 and 1" free throw rule has curbed fouling in Illinois prep basketball, the Illinois High School Assn. reported today.

The IHSA said its figures show that those who claim the rule and the bonus penalty have not been effective are "definitely in the wrong."

The association gathered records from 650 Illinois prep tournaments last season and said there was an average of 34.51 personal fouls per game.

This compared with an average of 39.4 per game in 1952, just before the "1 and 1" rule went into effect, the IHSA said.

For the "Sweet Sixteen" state finals alone, the association said, the number of personals whistled by officials dropped from an average of 37.81 in 1952 to 28.69 this spring.

The IHSA reported its figures showed a "slight" increase in total scores. It said this was "probably due in part" to the bonus penalty, but added that "greatly improved player skills are noticeable all through the maze of tournament statistics."

For example, the association cited increased shooting accuracy both from the field and the free throw line, and fewer jump ball and out-of-bounds situations.

The IHSA said there are fans who "decry" the large number of free throws in modern basketball, but they fail to consider that while free throw scoring is up, so is the total number of points scored in a game.

Over a long period, the organization said, the ratio between free throw points and the total score has "changed very little."

In its official publication, "The Illinois Interscholastic," the IHSA also issued a financial report on the series of tournaments that led to the state cage crown this spring. Gross receipts from all the tournaments were $384,755, of which $326,352 came from the district, regional and sectional tournaments and the rest from the state finals. The grand total compared with $378,650 in 1954.

Eldorado Drops Meet at Carmi

Eldorado dropped a 62-61 decision to Carmi Tuesday afternoon in a dual track and field meet held at Carmi. This marked the second dual meet victory of the season for Carmi over Eldorado and was Eldorado's second dual loss in four years.

Going into the final event—the mile relay—Eldorado held a four point advantage. In a closely contested race all the way, Carmi's anchor man broke the tape just inches in front of the Eldorado runner. This gave Carmi five points and the meet.

Probably the outstanding achievement of the day was Eldorado's Willis running the mile in 4:29.5. The best time recorded in Egypt previously this season in the mile was also by Willis, 4:46.1.

Eldorado coach Al Adams stated today he planned to take a 16-man squad to the district track and field meet to be held Friday at SIU stadium, Carbondale.

Bull Dog-W. Frankfort Game Cancelled; Tournaments to Begin

The baseball tilt between the Harrisburg Bull Dogs and the West Frankfort Red Birds, scheduled to be played here yesterday after it was rained out April 14, was rained out again and was cancelled out as the tournaments start Friday.

If the rains keep up so that the grounds cannot dry up, the schedule of district tourney play here may have to be revised.

Right now Carmi and Grayville are supposed to meet at the town park diamond and Shawneetown and McLeansboro at Taylor Field in contest to start at 3:30 p. m. Friday with Harrisburg to meet the Carmi-Grayville winner and Carrier Mills to play the Shawneetown-McLeansboro winner at 3:30 p. m. Monday. The first contest will be at the town park, the other at Taylor Field.

Bull Dog Track Team To Participate In District Meet

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs will participate in the district track and field meet, to be held at Carbondale Saturday. Preliminaries will start at 2:30 p. m., the finals at 7 p. m.

Hearn Assumes Role of Giants' No. One Pitcher, Hurls 6-3 Win Over Reds

By United Press

Leo Durocher was happy today to admit he was all wrong because Jim Hearn is making things all right for the New York Giants.

"I handled him wrong last season," the Giants' manager said. "I lost confidence in him but I promised I wouldn't do it again this year."

Hearn, who won only eight games in 1954 paid another dividend on Durocher's new policy Wednesday night when he pitched the Giants to a 6-3 decision over the Cincinnati Redlegs. In a few short weeks he has made the full turn—from the No. 1 disappointment of last season to the team's No. 1 pitcher this year.

It was the third straight victory for the steadily-improving Giants and especially heartening because the Chicago Cubs snapped the runaway Brooklyn Dodgers' 11-game winning streak with a 10-8 win a few hours before the world champions took the field in Cincinnati. The Giants still were 8½ games behind Brooklyn but they served notice on the Dodgers that even an occasional slip will be penalized.

Yields Eight Hits
Hearn yielded eight hits and only two earned runs in gaining his fifth victory of the year.

Monte Irvin hit a two-run homer and Whitey Lockman blasted a three-run round-tripper to spark the Giants' nine-hit attack which handed southpaw Joe Nuxhall his second loss.

The Dodgers' streak—longest of the season—ended when Ernie Banks hit a grand slam homer and Dee Fondy homered with two on for the Cubs.

Rip Repulski's double scored Stan Musial and climaxed a three-run eighth-inning rally that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 win and stretched the Philadelphia Phillies' losing streak to 11 games. The Phillies thus neared the club record of 14 straight setbacks suffered by the 1936 team. Joe Adcock hit two doubles and a single and Ed Mathews hit a three-run homer as the Milwaukee Braves beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-3, in the other National league game.

hold on first place. Ned Garver's three-hitter sparked the Detroit Tigers to a 7-0 win over the Washington Senators; the Kansas City Athletics downed the Baltimore Orioles, 2-0, and the Boston Red Sox beat the Chicago White Sox, 4-3.

Early Wynn bested Bob Turley in a pitching duel as the Indians swept to their sixth straight victory and 11th in 12 games. Wynn yielded five hits to Turley's three but the Yankee hurler walked eight men and three of them scored. Al Smith delivered a key two-run single for the Indians while Andy Carey and Mickey Mantle homered for the Yankees.

Al Kaline's seventh homer and three hits by Jay Porter and Harry Malmberg provided all the support Garver needed en route to his third win. Bobby Shantz, relieving Alex Kellner, yielded only two hits in six innings to win his second for the Athletics and Billy Klaus' two-run homer was the difference for the Red Sox, who celebrated the announcement of Ted Williams' return by snapping a five-game losing skein.

Archie McBride Wins Decision Over Bob Satterfield

CHICAGO—Heavyweight Archie McBride figured today he proved a point in his majority decision over Bob Satterfield in the Chicago Stadium's Wednesday boxing show.

"He's supposed to be a hard puncher," McBride said, "and I took his best punch and it never bothered me. So now I'm ready for two or three more fights with better banking heavyweights."

It was questionable, though, whether McBride actually took Satterfield's best punch. The Chicago heavyweight, who has knocked out 30 foes in 57 pro fights, injured his left hand in the second round and thereafter, he said, "I used it for show."

The hand was badly swollen over the knuckles on the forefinger and middle finger and swollen to twice its size after the fight. X-rays revealed it was a bad sprain, and not broken as had been feared by Satterfield's manager, Ike Bernstein. Bernstein said the hand would put Satterfield on the shelf for about three or four weeks.

He told me before the third round his hand hurt," Bernstein said, "and I told him to punch for the body."

Thereafter Satterfield used his left with abandon, but he said "the power wasn't there."

Satterfield's future was dimmed chiefly because of his injured hand. Even in defeat, he was not disgraced as Judge John Bray scored the bout 95-90 in his favor. Referee Frank Sikora scored 95-94 and Judge Jim McManus 96-94 for McBride, while the United Press card was 97-94 for McBride.

SIU Mile Relay Team Breaks Its Own School Record

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Southern Illinois university's mile relay team knocked seven-tenths of a second off their own school record Tuesday night.

Bob Kaczynski, Chicago; Vernon Sprehe, Nashville; Tony Velasco, Christopher; and Sam DeNeal, Harrisburg, covered the route in 3:26.4.

They set the previous record, 3:27.1, in a dual meet with Eastern Illinois two weeks ago.

Coach "Doc" Lingle's charges swamped Southeast Missouri 79-42 in the Tuesday meet, Southern's first night match of the year. The Salukis gained revenge for an earlier defeat by the Cape Girardeau school, the first in ten years.

Harrisburg Finishes Seventh in Junior High State Track Meet

Harrisburg finished seventh in the Junior high school state track and field meet held at Fairfield Wednesday afternoon. Leland Drue placed in three events to score all Harrisburg points—six.

Mt. Vernon won the meet with 32 points, Olney 30 1-3, Centralia 26 1-3, Lincoln of Carbondale 12, Lawrenceville 7½, Herrin 7, and Harrisburg 6. A total of 37 schools entered teams.

Drue was third in the discus, fourth in the 100 yard dash and fifth in the 220 yard dash.

Russia May Demand China in Top Level Talks

No Prospects
Eisenhower Would Attend Big 5 Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is likely to demand that China be invited to the proposed top-level Big Four meeting, administration officials said today.

They said there is no prospect, however, that President Eisenhower would sit down at a Big Five conference with Premier Chou En-lai, chief of the Chinese Red regime. The United States does not recognize the Peiping government.

Prospects of this demand have caused some concern. But experts do not believe the Russians would insist on Red China's participation as a condition for attending the conference.

In fact, diplomats are confident the Russians will agree to a top-level Big Four meeting, probably in July.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed the United States has expressed some interest in having the proposed meeting at Lugano, Switzerland. It would be attended by Mr. Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden, Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, and French Premier Edgar Faure.

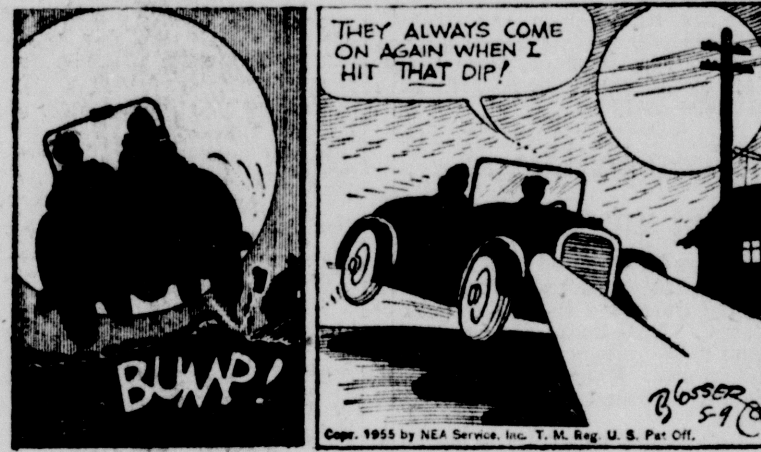

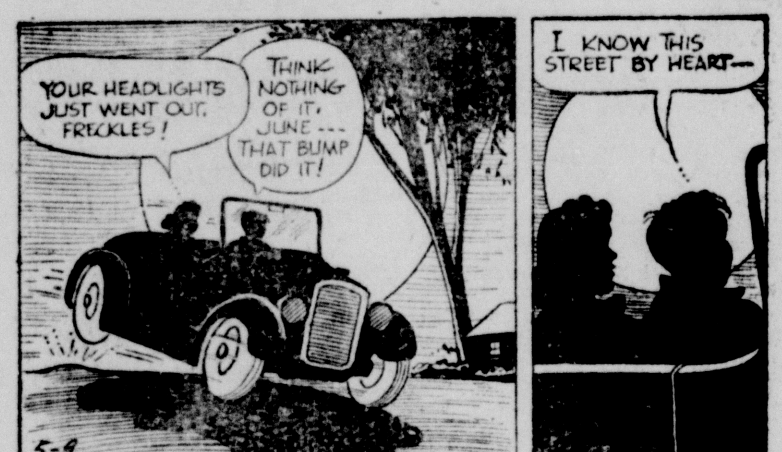

Other Sites Considered
Stockholm, Sweden, also was reported under consideration along with Geneva and Vienna.

Mr. Eisenhower indicated Wednesday at his news conference that a recent round of letters between him and Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov had influenced his decision to agree to a heads of government meeting. The President said only that correspondence was among the factors. He did not elaborate.

Mr. Eisenhower said he is ready to attend an international conference in a neutral country to test Russia's avowed willingness to reduce international tensions. He expressed the opinion that the heads of government in three days could outline areas of tension which would be tackled later by diplomats. No major decisions or final agreements would be expected from the top-level meeting.

May Have Encouraged Reds
There is some feeling the President unwittingly may have encouraged the Russians to try to get Red China into the top-level talks.

Mr. Eisenhower told reporters that the four powers might agree to limit their talks to certain areas of world tension. Asked if Far Eastern questions might come up, the President said he believed the general conversations would tend to go around the world. This virtually assured discussion of the Formosa crisis and other Far Eastern problems of vital interest to Red China.

Group Supports
SIU Athletic Scholarships

CARBONDALE, Ill., — Southern Illinois university's newly adopted athletic scholarship program was given enthusiastic approval by a group of area businessmen this week.

Meeting at the home of Pres. Delye W. Morris, the group of 30 men formed a group, as yet unnamed, to promote the athletic program at SIU.

Officers elected are Jack Lewis, Anna, president; Harry Crisp, Mar-ion, secretary; and Gordon Parrish, Carbondale, treasurer.

Athletic Director Carl E. Erickson explained details of the plan which calls for a four-year scholarship to students selected on the basis of academic standing, economic need, character and athletic ability.

The scholarships will be administered by the university scholarship and loans committee, but all funds used will be contributed by independent persons and groups.

To kick off the campaign, Col. Alexander MacMillan, commander of the AFROTC detachment at Southern, announced that the officers and enlisted men of the unit would sponsor one athlete next year, and deposited cash for the scholarship.

Cubs See Dogs and Dogs See Boys on Visit to Shelter

CUB SCOUTS OF DEN 1, PACK 23, took a trip to the shelter of the Harrisburg Humane society Tuesday afternoon, and they are pictured above after each had deposited a can of dog food he had brought for the animals now at the shelter. Pictured from left to right are: Kneeling, Johnny Epperheimer, who seems more interested in the dog than the camera, and Webb Gaskins; standing, Freddie Ozmert, Bill Del Balabas, Jimmy Peak, Bill Merrow, Jeffrey Davis, Donnie Johnson and Jimmy Smith; and at rear, Mrs. Bert Gaskins Jr., the den mother, and Mrs. C. R. VanTrease, helper. One member of the den, Kipper Davenport, was ill and could not attend. Dogs interested in the goings-on are Shep, near the fence, and Jo-Jo, on the doghouse. The lads were taken to the shelter as a part of their civic training. Last week they visited the television and radio stations and the police and fire departments. At the shelter Mrs. Tim Turner, president, showed them how the animals are taken care of, and read to them a pledge of kindness to dumb creatures. She then gave each pamphlets which tell how to care properly for dogs and cats.

Lions Contribute Volunteer Work at Carrier Mills Park

Construction of a shelter house at the Carrier Mills park is now underway and the area is looking more like a park every day. The shelter will be 32 feet by 12 feet. A gravelled roadway has been started, a part of the area completely cleared and one picnic table is on the grounds.

Plans call for a parking lot in the northeast corner, a play ground in the northwest corner and a spot for softball in the southwest part of the park area.

The park, a cooperative project by the citizens of Carrier Mills, is spearheaded by members of the Carrier Mills Lions club. The members are meeting each Monday evening from 5:30 to 7:30 to work. This takes the place of the regular meeting. Last Monday 21 members of the club and two volunteers worked.

Harry Fife, president of the Lions club, stated recently "This is a big project and when the park is ready for use will be available to everyone. The Lions will need help to push it to rapid completion and donations of cash or labor will be greatly appreciated."

Members of the park committee are Harry McAtee, Warren Jennings and Loren Dallas.

Rodents Eat Antlers
Buck deer shed their antlers every year. The antlers seldom are found in the woods because small rodents rapidly eat them for their high mineral content.

State Seeks to Give State Park To East St. Louis

SPRINGFIELD — There's a bill before the Illinois Senate today to give away a state park, complete with golf course and swimming lakes.

It's the Grand Marias Park near East St. Louis, roughly seven square miles in area. Grand Marias has a golf course, several lakes and a number of concessions.

But the Conservation Department finds it "undesirable" for a state park.

The bill, sponsored by administration leaders, would give the city of East St. Louis first chance at the park district. The city could get the park free before next Jan. 1. Then the East St. Louis park district could take over the park if it wanted it between Jan. 1, 1956 and July 1, 1956.

If neither city or park district wanted Grand Marias, then the county would be given its chance from July 1, 1956 to Jan. 1, 1957.

If the state still had the park after Jan. 1, 1957, the Conservation Department could sell it for cash.

Sen. James W. Gray (D-East St. Louis) said he has "no objection" to the state turning over Grand Marias to the city or park district of East St. Louis.

Conservation Director Glen D. Palmer said the park is primarily a "recreation area" with no historical significance.

"It doesn't get statewide usage, and there's no reason the state should continue to maintain it," he said.

Gray said the park was built in the depression of the 1930s with the use of WPA labor. The golf course and lakes were built then.

"But when the WPA program ended, it was fairly expensive to maintain, so the park district turned it over to the state," he explained. Now the state wants to give it back.

"The state has neglected Grand Marias... one of the lakes has dried up, and it should be kept in better shape," Gray said.

Gray has another bill before the Senate which concerns Grand Marias. He wants to eliminate the 10-cent admission fee and the 10-cent per car parking fee for admission to the park.

"There's no point in having an entrance fee because the state would have to build a fence around the place to collect it," he said.

"It would cost more to build the fence than they could collect," Gray said.

Fees already are collected for boating and golfing at Grand Marias, and the entrance fees keeps others away, Gray said.

High Blood Pressure Pills Fatal to Child

CHICAGO — Mrs. Carmella Basile, 43, awakened today and noticed pills from a bottle spilled on a bedside table. The pills were for her high blood pressure. About 18 were missing.

Mrs. Basile and her husband, Anthony, 45, a factory worker, asked each of their six children which one had swallowed the pills.

"I did," said the youngest, Linda, 3.

A doctor was called. He summoned police. The child was taken to County hospital where her stomach was pumped.

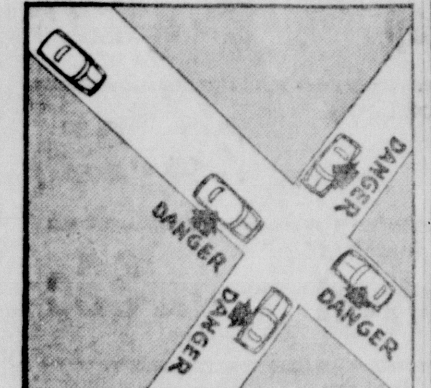

But it was too late. The child died.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Always leave yourself an "out" when you are driving. It is like having an escape hatch on a submarine. You may not have to use it often, but when a sudden dangerous situation develops it may save your life.

Keep in mind the fact that the other fellow may do the unexpected at the last instant, and be ready to avoid crashing into him. As an example, when driving along a two-lane highway, you see a car a couple hundred yards ahead of you moving in the same direction and signalling for a left turn.

That is the time to cut your own speed. He may make his turn immediately and clear the way for you. But remember, he may not. Approaching traffic may make it necessary for him to stop on the highway and wait, or his motor may stall. In either case, if you are coming up behind him at a high rate of speed, you can quickly be in trouble. Anticipate that possible trouble and be sure you can stop if it actually occurs.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.
